

PHCOEM Golden Coconut Submission

Good day, our names are Frito and Lei, and we have a tale to tell!
As travelers, we have been on many adventures and think this Club is really swell.
By nature, we are story tellers; but we decided on this little diddy.
Thinking about all the wonderful things they do makes us awfully giddy.

They adorn Hawaiian shirts and leis, and dress like pirates most of the day.
So we would like to introduce you to their Club, without delay.

There are many great things to say about this Phlock.
However, we will make it short and sweet; it's nearing five o'clock!
In the year 2022, they dedicated many, many volunteer hours and raised many, many dollars for good reasons.

They are well on their way to exceeding this for the 2023 season.
Hopefully putting the pandemic behind us and gathering again as crew.
We can get back to our usual monthly charity and social work without further ado.

The Club consists of nurses, teachers, guitarists, managers and people that know how to fly.
They work together to Party with a Purpose and that's truly no word of a lie.
The area that's covered is big and wide, so we work in many a smaller group.
The communication between us all is extensive that's how we keep everyone in the loop.

Our Phlock discover, as the days move on and grow long.
The older and wiser we get; but more importantly, together we stay strong!
The Parrot Head nation lost a lot of Phriends this year; including some from our crew.
So we made some positive changes in "Latitude and Attitude" and the club just grew!

Okay, enough with the introductions; let's tell you some of what they have done.
The Phlock tattoos, cheers and limbos the night away for hours with many special athletes.
Hundreds of whom make them feel so good when they play air guitar and turn around whirling on their feet.

These crazy Parrot Heads dress like pirates and wenches and take pictures with all their favorite keets.

The Club has taken part in many different blood drives for cancer research this year. Each helping many lives; saving hundreds of pints donated with blood sweat and tear. A pint for a pint or party with purpose as the Parrot Heads motto goes. We helped many, many people with our donations from head to toes!

Their Phall gathering supports another local charity that they just love to volunteer their time.

Helping an animal shelter, donating hundreds of pounds of food, towels, blankets and money by drinking margaritas with lime.

The band plays for hours as the Phlock from all over comes together. They sell raffles and donate prizes to help the good of the animals, they would rather.

Phlocking together on special co-Club events for charity.

They are very successful 100% of the time and failure is a rarity.

One such event, a festival of trees happens during the holiday season.

They get the group and decorate Christmas trees for this kind reason.

The monies made are donated to some needy families and children who don't have much. So they help make this event a huge success and in turn are told many lives they have touched.

The winter gets colder here and the seasons they are a changing.

That doesn't deter this Club from any charity event fundraising.

They were the top team in just a few short weeks for raising money to play a glow dodgeball game for special athletes.

Dressed like Pirates and Buccaneers they jumped and dodged all like a pro!

The Phlock also works with a local brewery and Club favorite, a special athletes cancer foundation to participate in the "0.0 race".

All to raise money for cancer and try to rid it without a trace.

They volunteer hours tirelessly to one of the biggest bike rides for cancer research in the country and state.

This is one event that makes their Club stand out as really being great.

The Phlock directs traffic, fills bikers' bottles, and feeds them at this rest mile.

They happily cheer loudly and thank them for riding for their loved ones all the while.

After much laughter and cheering and even a shedding of a tear or two.

For this Club and these dedicated riders, the day just flew.

They gather hundreds of white stockings for our troops overseas during the month of socktoberfest.

In hopes of getting Veterans pairs of new, clean, dry socks so their feet will be at their best.

The Club travels all kinds of distances to events, cleaning beaches from north to south without a fuss.

They pick up many pounds of trash every year and stand together as one, to quote many of their members "I LOVE US!"

This Phlock does many good deeds without any recognition or attention. They fly under the radar most of the time, and that's their intention.

They don't do all these things to look for thanks and praise. They are just happy to live the island life and have a glass to raise.

This Phlock may not be in the top ten in size or bring in the most money. But they are working hard together to make a difference like bees around honey.

So, as you can see from Frito and Lei, "They may be growing older but not up!" This never-ending volunteerism effort fills up their "tin cup"!
